a Refers to Singapore residents (i.e., Singapore citizens and permanent residents) and nonresidents. For 2003 onward, excludes residents who are overseas for a continuous period of 12 months or longer as at the reference period.

b For 2003, the figure is calculated based on the 2003 unrevised population, which includes residents who are overseas for a continuous period of 12 months or longer as at the reference period. It is to be noted that data for the years prior to 1991 are calculated using population estimates based on the de facto concept (i.e., the person is present in the economy at the reference period), while data for 1991 onward are based on the de jure concept (i.e., the person's place of usual residence).

c Refers to persons aged 15 years and older with estimates derived by combining data on residents (also known as locals) obtained from the Comprehensive Labour Force Survey with foreign workforce data compiled from administrative records.

d Refers to Singapore residents only and is based on the midyear Comprehensive Labour Force Survey. Data on industry are classified according to the Singapore Standard Industry Classification (SSIC): SSIC 2000 for 2000–2004, SSIC 2005 for 2005–2009, SSIC 2010 for 2010–2014, and SSIC 2015 for 2015–2019.
